WHITE WATER MEADOW

Cowm Reservoir, Whitworth, Near Rochdale, Lancashire

This is a beautiful new meadow, which is a valued extension to the existing Cowm reservoir site, which has proved to be very popular. Opened in January 2008 this site has been developed to accommodate around sixty memorial trees of various varieties and lends itself to easy access for wheelchair users and other disabled clients. There is ample car parking facilities. White Water Meadow is a most peaceful, tranquil and befitting place to remember a lost loved one. The site sports lovely views across the moorland, which is part of the western approaches to the Pennine Chain.

Eventually woodland benches in a limited number will be added to provide comfort for visitors wishing to sit and enjoy the full splendour of this remarkably beautiful area. This planting area is on the left hand side of the main approach to the reservoir and is already clearly signed.
